Chiang Mai

Popularly known as the Rose of the North, Chiang Mai is blessed with stunning natural beauty and unique indigenous cultural identity. Found by King Mengrai the Great as the capital of the Lanna Thai kingdom by merging the various city-states in the region in 1296. Today Chiang Mai is the economic, communications, cultural and tourism centre of Northern Thailand. About 700 kilometres from Bangkok, Chiang Mai is situated on the Mae Ping River basin some 310 metres above sea level. Surrounded by high mountain ranges, it covers an area of approximately 20,107 square kilometres. The terrain is mainly jungles and mountains, parts of which are within national parks which are still fertile and verdant with plentiful flora and fauna. There are many sites and locations where tourists prefer to visit to study the lifestyle of the tribal people who live on high hills.

Attractions in Doi Inthanon National Park

Namtok Mae Ya (น้ำตกแม่ยะ)

is one of the most beautiful cascades in Chiang Mai. Water flows from a 280-metre steep cliff onto different rock formations in a lower basin like drapes. The well-managed waterfall is teeming with verdant forests and is best for recreation. It is located 1 kilometre from Highway No. 1009 junction, turn left for 14 kilometres and then take a 200-metre walk.

Namtok Mae Ya

Namtok Mae Klang

Namtok Mae Klang (น้ำตกแม่กลาง) is a 100-metre one-level waterfall located 8 kilometres from Highway No. 1009 junction and turn left onto an asphalt road for 500 metres.

Namtok Wachirathan (น้ำตกวชิรธาร) is a large waterfall which plummets over the edge of a high cliff into a deep pool below. When there is a large amount of water, there are large splashes in the basin, creating a cool and refreshing environment. The delightful ambience can be felt by walking on a slippery bridge that leads to the waterfall.

To get there: Turn right off Highway No.1009 at Km. 21, then follow the signpost to the waterfall a further 350 metres on foot. At Km. 20 a new road is built to reduce the walk to the waterfall.

Namtok Siriphum (น้ำตกลีภิรมย์) is a splendid waterfall that falls from a steep cliff in two lines and can be seen en route to Doi Inthanon. The attractive waterfall is located at Km. 31 of Highway No. 1009, take a right turn for 2 kilometres and is approachable only on foot from the base of the waterfall.

Namtok Siriphum

Phra Mahathat Napha Methanidon and Phra Mahathat Naphaphon Phumisiri

Doi Inthanon Royal Project (สถานีวิจัยเกษตรหลวง ดอยอินทนนท์)

is in Khun Klang village close to the park headquarters. The project was initiated in 1979 to help the hill tribes to cultivate cash crops other than opium and train them on modern agricultural practices. Most produces are temperate zone plants. Flower plantations, a plant breeding research lab and flower plantations of hill tribes (Hmong) are open to visitors.

Phra Mahathat Napha Methanidon and Phra Mahathat Naphaphon Phumisiri (พระมหาธาตุ นภเมทนีดลและพระมหาธาตุนภพลภูมิสิริ)

twin pagodas located at Km. 41.5, were built to commemorate the fifth cycle birthdays of King Bhumibol Adulyadej and Queen Sirikit. Both pagodas share the similar bases as well as a two-level walking path that surrounds them. The pagodas enshrine Lord Buddha's ashes and Buddha images, and overlook the magnificent scenery of Doi Inthanon.

Doi Inthanon Peak (ยอดดอยอินทนนท์) has a cool climate all year round. The Air Force Radar Station and King Inthawichayanon's stupa located on the mountaintop. King Inthawichayanon, the last king of Chiang Mai, was concerned about the importance of forests and wanted to preserve the forests for future generations. He was so familiar with Doi Inthanon that he asked that part of his ashes be kept here. The Tourist Information Centre, near the top of Doi Inthanon, exhibits a chronological background of the mountain, including its geography, biology, forests, and animals.

Namtok Mae Pan (น้ำตกแม่ปาน) is the longest waterfall in Chiang Mai, which flows from a 100-metre scree. Its charm can be enjoyed by standing some distance from the falls. From afar, the white water and the green forests around the falls make a beautiful picture. From Km. 38 of Highway No. 1009, drive along the Doi Inthanon-Mae Chaem road (Highway

No. 1192) for 6 kilometres and a sign to the waterfall will be seen, then drive on an unpaved road for 9 kilometres. The lovely waterfall can be reached by a ten-minute walk from a parking lot. In the rainy season, the road to Namtok Mae Pan is in a poor condition; only a four-wheel vehicle could make the journey.

Namtok Huai Sai Lueang (น้ำตกห้วยทรายเหล็ก) is beyond Namtok Mae Pan, about 21 kilometres from Doi Inthanon-Mae Chaem Road. Turn left to an unpaved road where only a four-wheel vehicle could make a trip in the rainy season. The medium-size cascade has water all year round and flows from a cliff to each level.

Natural Study trek on Doi Inthanon Kiu Mae Pan (กิ่วแม่ปาน)

starts from Km. 42. This short trail, winding through pristine forest for about 2.5 kilometres, a 3-hour walk, allows the hiker to experience the natural beauty of the forest at first hand. The Rhododendrons, commonly found in the Himalayas, are found along the trail and they are in full bloom during December-February. Trekkers on this route should seek permission from the park headquarters for safety reasons. A group of not more than 15 people is recommended. Food consumption is not allowed while trekking. This nature trail is closed for reforestation from June 1 to October 30 annually.

Ang Ka Luang Nature Trail (อ่างกาหลวง) was surveyed and designed by Mr. Michael MacMillan Walls, a Canadian volunteer biologist who devoted to his work and died from a heart attack on this mountain. This trail is 360 metres long, passing through wet and cold areas in a lush valley. Forest above 2,000 metres is covered with lichens and wild orchids. Indigenous plants that needs a high level of nutrition, organic deposits, and rare species of birds are seen along the trail.

There are more nature trails on Doi Inthanon, each providing different views of the diversity of plants, reforestation, the importance of tributaries, the origin of caves, hilltribe agriculture, and bird watching. Walking trails range from 1 to 8 kilometres. Each trip needs approval from the Chief of the National Park and a trekking leader is needed. The service is obtained at the Park Office at Km. 31.

Kiu Mae Pan

Birdwatching on Doi Inthanon

Inthanon Bird Watching Information Centre (Uncle Daeng's Shop) is located at Km. 31. This is a bird information exchange centre among bird watchers, nature students and the general public. The information details the habitat and food of birds and animals living on Doi Inthanon. The aim is to pass on this knowledge to the next generation. It also provides the Doi Inthanon Bird watching Diary, bird sketches by various bird watching experts, bird watching trails, bird pictures, and slides. Winter is the best time for bird watching when indigenous and migrant birds are found including Eurasian Woodcock, White Wagtail, Grey Wagtail, Yellow Wagtail, Citrine Wagtail, Forest Wagtail, Chestnut Thrush, Scarlet Finch, Little Bunting, and Crested Bunting.

Chiang Mai (Khun Wang) Royal Agricultural Research Centre (สถานีวิจัยเกษตรหลวงเชียงใหม่ (ขุนวาง))

Take the road at Nong Hoi Police box to the Ko Klang Pa Kluai intersection and en route to Chedi Liam Police box. Wiang Kum Kam Information Center Tel. 0 5327 7322

Wat Chedi Liam or Chedi Ku Kham (วัดเจดีย์เหลี่ยม หรือเจดีย์คู่คำ)

on Ko Klang Road, Wiang Kum Kam. It was built in 1288 during the reign of King Mengrai. After the King marched his army and conquered Lamphun town, he appointed his close councilor named Ai Fa to govern this town. The King and his troops moved to build a new city in the northeast for 2 years and then moved to build another new city on the Ping River in 1286 and named it Wiang Kum Kam. In 1287, he ordered craftsmen to make a blueprint of a stupa from Wat Chammathewi in Lamphun to construct for the people to worship. This stupa was built in the Thai measure of 8 wa and 1 sok wide (16.5 metres) base with 22 wa high (44 metres) consisting of niches of Buddha images on the four sides containing 15 Buddha images at each side or 60 of them in total. The temple was abandoned for hundreds of years until 1908, when it was discovered by a wealthy Burmese man. With his faith, the Burmese tycoon had the chedi renovated by Burmese workers. As a result, the art style of the chedi changed from its original to the Burmese style; only the structure remains the same.

Wat Chedi Liam or Chedi Ku Kham

Bamboo Rafting-Whitewater Rafting on the Mae Wang (ล่องแพแม่น้ำแม่ว้าง)

Steer your own bamboo or rubber raft amid forest scenery down the 10-kilometres main river of the Mae Wang, which merges with the Mae Win from Ban Khun Win, passing rapids with difficulty levels of 1 and 2 (including large drops). In addition, get to know the indigenous Karen Sgaw Hill Tribe. All these are found at Ban Sop Win, Mu 9, Tambon Mae Win. Contact Mae Win Subdistrict Administrative Organisation, Tel. 0 5393 9762.

Bamboo Rafting along the Mae Taeng River (ล่องแพลำน้ำแม่แตง)

is very popular because the river zigzags along the valleys. The river tide is not too rough and the surroundings on both sides are very admirable. The journey starts from Pong Dueat by trekking and spending a night at Ban Pa Khaolam, a Karen village. Then, rafting along the Mae Taeng River to Ban Sop Kai for approximately 3-4 hours. The most suitable period for rafting along the river is from the end of the rainy season to winter. There are many travel agents in Chiang Mai provide this service.

Whitewater Rafting along the Mae Taeng River (ล่องแก่งลำน้ำแม่แตง)

can be divided into 3 parts. The first is from Ban Mueang Khong to Ban Pa Khaolam. This part is quite calm. The second is from Ban Pa Khaolam to Ban Sop Kai where there are a lot of rapids fun for whitewater rafting. The last part is from Ban Sop Kai to Mae Thaeng Elephant Camp where kayaking can be done. Contact Tel. 0 5380 0567 www.thepeakadventure.com

Bamboo Rafting along the Mae Chaem River (ล่องแพลำน้ำแม่แจ่ม)

can be done throughout the year. During the rainy season, the tide is strong and murky but during summer, the water is clear. Rafting can be done by both rubber dinghy and bamboo raft. The entire trip takes 2-3 hours.

Whitewater Rafting along the Mae Cham River (ล่องแก่งลำน้ำแม่แจ่ม)

in Ob Luang National Park. The difficulty of whitewater rafting here is from Level 3-4. During the season when the tide is high, it is not suggested to do whitewater rafting because the tide is too strong and may result in an accident. For further information, please contact Ob Luang National Park, Tel. 0 5322 9272.

Bamboo Rafting along the Kok River (ล่องแพแม่น้ำกก)

is nowadays popular among both local and foreign tourists because they will have a chance to see the magnificent surroundings and lifestyle along the Kok River. Tourists who wish to do bamboo rafting can contact the travel agencies at Ban Tha Ton such as Tha Ton Tour, Tel. 0 5337 3143, Chao Phae (Thip Travel), Tel. 0 5345 9312.
